

MRS. S. BLECKLEY DEAD.

Passed Away at Her Anderson Home Last Wednesday.

(Anderson Mail, 22d.)

Mrs. Elizabeth Hammond Bleckley, widow of the late Sylvester Bleckley, died at her home on North Main street shortly after 2 o'clock this afternoon. She had been in declining health for several months and her death has been momentarily expected by members of the family and friends for several days.

Mrs. Bleckley is survived by three brothers—W. A. Hammond and G. E. Hammond, of Williston, Fla.; O. F. Hammond, of Greenville, and one sister, Mrs. L. L. Gaillard, who resides on West Franklin street, this city. Five daughters, all of Anderson, survive her. They are Mrs. S. J. Peebles, Mrs. J. J. Fretwell, Mrs. William Laughlin, Mrs. A. G. Means and Mrs. F. B. Maxwell.

Mrs. Elizabeth Hammond Bleckley, the daughter of the late Frank Hammond, was born on her father's country estate, a few miles north of this city, in the year of 1837. She received her early education at a country school, and even during those childhood days began to show a taste for literature. Later she became a student at Johnson University, this city, and during her college life her brilliant essays, humorous or grave, gave zest to the pages of a monthly magazine, "Le Bas Blue," which was published by the senior class of the university. She was graduated with distinction in 1853, receiving her badge and diploma from the hands of Dr. William Bullen Johnson, the distinguished divine who was chancellor of this institution at that time.

She was married to Sylvester Bleckley, and in all her duties of life as church-woman, wife, mother, friend, she retained the same lovable, beautiful character of her earlier years.

She had been president of the Woman's Temperance Union ever since its organization, and was ever ready with tongue or pen to fight the great foe of mankind—Intemperance.

As a Daughter of the Revolution she was often chosen by Catechee Chapter to represent them in the national conventions as well as the State. In 1913 she was appointed by the president-general, Mrs. Wm. C. Story, a member of the Historical Research and Preservation of Records Committee, which is an important committee, and on which Mrs. Bleckley was fully capable of being, having a wonderful memory, and also was always on the lookout for anything of historical interest.

Nowhere will Mrs. Bleckley be missed more than in the United Daughters of the Confederacy. Having been in those trying times, she knew how to sympathize with the "boys who wore the gray," and they never lacked this word of love from Mrs. Bleckley. At all Confederate reunions or special days the program was not complete without Mrs. Bleckley to speak a few words or give one of her splendid dialect stories, which were original, and the foundation of which she had gotten on her father's plantation. She was a member of R. E. Lee Chapter, U. D. C., but all the chapters claimed an interest in Mrs. Bleckley. She had been gleaner of R. E. Lee Chapter since its organization, which goes back about twenty years. Her current events always sparkled with irresistible and irresistible wit, which identified Mrs. Bleckley's presence in every place.

Mrs. Bleckley was also one of the first to join the Civic Association and was ever ready to do anything that would beautify her town, and make it more attractive to residents and strangers. In fact, her hand was ever stretched to the latter, and she welcomed them with a cordiality that gave them that good feeling of "Make yourself at home," and which lasted as an endearing memory, which means so much to a stranger within your gates.

Thoroughly enjoying life in its most beautiful phases, the sunshine of her presence brought pleasure to all with whom she came in contact.

No! Not dead! Good-night, beloved. Thy pure white soul has crossed to "the misty border-land, where the living may not follow." We know that thou art clothed in the garments of righteousness, and hath entered the palace of the Great King—a member of the white throng that is now and forever singing.

Sweet Potatoes for Bedding.

(Progressive Farmer.)

"I raise and sell quite a quantity of sweet potatoes for seed. Should I grow large ones or small ones for bedding? Some people want large ones and some small ones. One man told me that the small potatoes would make strings. I usually have both large and small ones to suit all, but for my own benefit I would like to know what size you would prefer?"

Instead of selecting the small potatoes from the general crop, the practice of the large growers is to raise small ones especially for bedding. This is done by making cuttings in late July or early August about a yard long. These are collared around the hand and the whole coll planted in the hill with only the tip showing outside. These cuttings will make small potatoes from every joint, and these keep more easily than the potatoes from the early plants. They are sold here for bedding under the name of slips. These will make more plants to the square yard of bed than any you can use, and will make as fine potatoes as any.

Want Report on Sam Parks Case.

Washington, July 23.—The case of Private Samuel Parks, who mysteriously disappeared at Vera Cruz in the early days of the American occupation of that city, will again be brought to the attention of the government at Mexico City with a request for an explanation of what has happened to him. This is one of the heritages of the Carbajal government from the Huerta regime.

Secretary Garrison said to-day that farther representations will be made through the State Department. Huerta promised an investigation of the case, but nothing ever developed. Hearsay evidence says Parks was executed by the Mexicans and his body destroyed.

TO PUT IN POULTRY PLANT.

F. C. Hare to Take Charge of New Branch at Clemson.

Clemson College, July 27.—South Carolina will have an up-to-date poultry plant at its agricultural and mechanical college, and will also have extension work in poultry. At its recent meeting the board of trustees of the college created a poultry husbandry branch of the division of animal husbandry and appointed F. C. Hare, who is well known in a number of counties in the State for his poultry work, to teach poultry husbandry and to do extension work.

Mr. Hare is now junior animal husbandman in the United States Bureau of Animal Industry. For several months he was in charge of the poultry demonstration work in South Carolina in co-operation with Clemson College. Recently, however, he was recalled to Washington to complete some work which he had left unfinished when sent to South Carolina to take up the work here.

The trustees of Clemson College decided to install a poultry plant and to establish extension work in poultry under the direct management of the college. Mr. Hare is a poultry specialist of several years' experience and has also had experience in the poultry publishing field. He has already established a wide acquaintance in South Carolina.

THE WAR OF BUSINESS.

Clear Eye, Strong Arm, Good Health, Are Secrets of Health.

The man with the punch, both mental and physical is the big business success of to-day.

His bodily health is the force behind his business possibilities.

The business world has no time to listen to the grouchy story.

Sour stomach, malaria, indigestion, coated tongue and a hundred other bodily ills come from an out-of-order liver.

Calomel used to be considered the only relief. Modern medical science has provided a far milder and more pleasant form of liver relief in Carswell's Liver-Aid, a purely vegetable liquid remedy.

A large bottle can be had for 50 cents at Bell's Drug Store, where the purchase price will be promptly returned in case you wish it after trying this wonderful remedy.—Adv.

Surprising Cure of Stomach Trouble.

When you have trouble with your stomach or chronic constipation, don't imagine that your case is beyond help just because your doctor fails to give you relief. Mrs. G. Stengle, Plainfield, N. J., writes: "For over a month past I have been troubled with my stomach. Everything I ate upset it terribly. One of Chamberlain's advertising booklets came to me. After reading a few of the letters from people who had been cured by Chamberlain's Tablets, I decided to try them. I have taken nearly three-fourths of a package of them and can now eat almost everything that I want." For sale by all dealers.—Adv.

After receiving them he was himself taken sick and says that one small bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy was worth more to him than the cost of his entire stock of these medicines.
